THE PREDECESSOR DEFENSE

A complete inventory of the systems you did not build, the decisions you did not make, and the risk registers signed off long before your arrival.

Read aloud, in order, until the auditors stop nodding.

File this disk somewhere they will not look — but somewhere you can find it before the next quarter closes.

THE REORGANISATION

A complete organisational chart with every title shifted exactly one box to the right. Print, distribute, schedule the all-hands.

Bonus file `VISION.TXT` — the word synergy, repeated until the disk is full.

Reorgs do not solve problems. They restart the clock. This disk restarts the clock.

THE LAST INSTRUCTION

Format three blank floppies. Label them in oxblood ink. Write a welcome note to the next Chief Information Officer.

Leave the disks in the top drawer of the desk. Leave the desk.

The office is a relay. You are not the runner; you are the baton. Pass cleanly.
